Vintage Notes

Bud break for the 2024 white and rosé vintage showed up right on time in early April, just after a stretch of cool, rainy days. By mid-May, the sun was shining and bloom rolled through the vineyards like clockwork. Spring and summer brought classically warm days balanced by cool nights. August arrived as the second coolest in a decade—perfect for locking in the crispness and clarity we love in our wines. With cool breezes and gentle sun, August and September set the stage for beautifully balanced rosé. The 1882 Rosé harvest began on September 4th, unfolding slowly until October 1st—each pick capturing the ideal growing season in every berry.

Tasting Notes

The 2024 Niebaum-Pennino 1882 Rosé presents a soft, pink color that hints at the wine's gentle character. The wine opens with a delicate tulip aroma, evoking springtime florals. On the nose, the wine shows fresh, crisp notes of white peach and clementine, adding a citrusy brightness that complements the subtle yet refreshing scent of watermelon rind. The palate is lively with fresh acidity, balancing the fruit's softness and leading to a rounded texture. A hint of flint adds a mineral edge that enhances the wine's complexity. The finish is clean, leaving a lasting impression of vibrant, refreshing fruit and light minerality.
