Vintage Notes

A winter of generous rainfall provided abundant soil moisture to start the 2023 growing season. Wet and cold winter soils contributed to timely bud break, while a cool early spring prolonged the development from bud break through bloom. Thanks to the abundant soil moisture, the canopies flourished and ensured the vines had ample resources for ripening the crop. Bloom occurred in June under ideal conditions, with perfect temperatures and humidity for a successful fruit set. The warmth of summer brought the growing season to a close with excellent ripening of our grapes, keeping their freshness and minerality in balance. The long, cool 2023 season provided ideal conditions for the fruit comprising our 1882 Rosé, achieving the perfect level of acidity by the end of the season. Harvest for our 1882 Rosé began on September 11th and concluded on October 9th.

The finish is long and harmonious, leaving a refreshing impression. The wine showcases a beautiful light pink coral color, enhancing its appeal.
